

TENTED CITY RISES AT RADIO TO SHELTER WAR-EQUIPPED ARMY OF LOCAL GUARDSMEN

Details from Various Units Toil Throughout Day to Prepare Site for Entry of Militiamen Today—Tents Are Pitched, Streets Laid Out, Provisions Stored, Kitchens Installed and Trenches Dug—Barren Field Assumes Martial Aspect.

From morn to night yesterday automobiles and transfer wagons were transporting stores to the camp site of the District National Guard, near Radio, Va. Details of the different units ordered into service were busy following the directions of the officers in laying out the camp and distributing the bundles of tents, the dozens of cots, the hundreds of tent pegs, and other quartermaster supplies that will be necessary to take care of the 1,000 men who will march into camp today.

Although the water system connecting with the post at Fort Myer was not laid at a late hour last evening, it is expected that it will be ready today.

Near Fort Myer Field.

Facing the great Arlington Cemetery, with the north end of the camp on the Fort Myer cavalry drill field, the District National Guard camp is situated. From the north to the south the units will be encamped in the following order: Signal Corps company, Troop A, of Cavalry; Batteries A and B of field artillery, headquarters, hospital company, Third Regiment of infantry, consisting of twelve companies, machine gun company, and supply company. First Sergeant's position. On the south runs the railway, with the railway station directly south, and on the next hill is the trio of tall wireless towers that are the means of communication between the government and all parts of North America. To the north is the Fort Myer post, with its many barracks.

The field, which a few days ago was nothing but an open space with high grass and brush, has already assumed a martial air. Capt. E. M. Nevils, camp quartermaster, and his details had the task of putting the site into such a condition that the troops tomorrow can come into camp and pitch their tents and live. Lieut. J. Ralph Fehr, of the Third Infantry, was commander of the operations of the Third Infantry part of the camp.

"Rookies" Pitch Tents.

Lieut. H. E. Shilling had a squad of about twenty "rookies" pitching the tents of Batteries A and B. The Signal Corps, under Capt. O. C. Terry, had most of its tents up and the men were preparing for a good night's rest. The field hospital company immediately established a hospital consisting of three "pup" tents, marked by three Red Cross flags, but no use was found for them. The camp was begun, according to blue prints furnished by the War Department, facing south, but early in the morning the whole establishment was twisted around so that the company streets ran east and west.

One of the reasons that the troops did not march into the camp yesterday was the lack of transportation facilities. Only about thirty horses, those of the batteries of field artillery, were available, and these were not enough. No auto trucks are owned by the Guard, and twenty tons of supplies from Colonial Beach, which were brought up the river by the naval militia vessel Sylvia, in addition to the tents, stoves, cots, and camp stores that were at the L Street Armory, had to be moved to the site at Radio, and moved there quickly.

Merchants Lend Aid.

Several of the merchants of Washington, believing in "commercial preparedness," came to the rescue, and offered the use of their delivery trucks to the camp officers. These offers were accepted, and with the help of hired auto trucks and transfer wagons, the materials were transported.

The merchants who offered the use of their trucks were: Woodward & Lothrop, Kann's, Burr Brothers, W. B. Moss, Duin & Martin, and Chapman Coal Company.

The transporting and unloading of materials was done under armed guard, a "dough boy" stationed on each wagon, and the amount of work done by the details lifting tents, stoves, and other supplies off the wagons, and placing them in piles at the head of company streets was greater than that usually done by the average clerk, much greater. By the end of the day the field resembled slightly some of the European roads that are pictured as rutted by the great loads drawn over them. The recent rains left puddles of mud and water, and the "going" of the big trucks in these was slow. Several times the "rookies" had to get to work with shovel and pick and dig the trucks out of the soft mud.

Puddles Will Be Filled.

The number of open and stagnant mud holes on the camp ground is a menace to the health of the camp, but Capt. Nevils said that they would be filled and burned out with oil.

I believe that everything will be in readiness when the men march in tomorrow," Gen. William E. Harvey said on his visit to the camp yesterday with Mrs. Harvey.

There were many visitors to the camp, many of them being relatives of the men who will be mobilized. Many came by automobile, and all watched the activities with interest.

Everyone was busy. Up in Battery A camp, a bunch of rookies were being given the first lessons in tent pitching. "A tent can be pitched in about three minutes with experienced men, but of course we are taking a little longer this time," said Lieut. Shilling, who was in charge.

In the Third Infantry camp, Lieut.

Fehr, with transit and tape, had a detail of about ten men laying out the fifteen company streets of the regiment. He also was superintending the piling of the necessary wall and conical tents at the head of each street, the cots, and the tent pegs. A big 400-pound stove, sooty from much service, was awaiting the cooks of each company.

Yesterday the details which established camp, about forty men in all, were fed by a caterer of Washington. They received the food and hot coffee with-out the ceremony of table cloths and knives and forks, and ate while seated on the piles of tentage. Today the kitchens will be established.

A group of carpenters were at work making the latrines for the camp, and trenches to the rear of the camp were being dug.

When the water pipes are laid connected with the post, shower baths will be installed and water will be obtainable at the head of each company street. A bath tent for the officers and several for the men will be pitched.

Post Exchange Installed.

Already a post exchange, a branch of the regular army exchange at Fort Myer, has been established at the south of the camp, and today the "dough boys" will be able to get ice cream, "pop," cakes, and all other goods sold by the city store. Private Otto Kellmann, of the regular cavalry, is in charge.

A Y. M. C. A. tent will be established soon after the men encamp.

On all sides the stores, piled in great heaps, were accumulating. The Signal Corps had its wire and telephone equipment. In the infantry camp several dozen bales of hay, five or six wagon loads of cord wood, barrels of oil, piles of lumber, tentage, and cots were to be seen. The Medical Corps had boxes of medicine and medical equipment, and every minute some new material arrived in the camp. Quartermaster Sergeant B. P. Shields was a busy man about the camp. Last night an armed guard was stationed at the camp and today everything will be ready for the District soldiers.

COURT-MARTIAL FOR MEN WHO IMBIBE TOO MUCH

Three Militiamen, Found Drunk at Armory, Dismissed With Reprimand Because of First Offense.

The idea of certain members of the District militia that camping, preliminary to entraining for the border, might be converted into a "hurrah celebration," was dispelled once and for all at the L Street Armory yesterday, when formal notice was read by the company commanders that any man found under the influence of liquor while in uniform, would not only be dishonorably discharged from the service but sent to the workhouse at Occoquan for thirty days.

The order was the result of the actions of three militiamen who reported at the armory yesterday in a befuddled condition. They were immediately placed under arrest and probably will be court-martialed today. Because, in each instance, it happens to be a first offense, these men may escape with a severe reprimand. But the company commanders announced that, first offense or not, there will be no more "escapes." Formal warning has gone out, and those disregarding it will be stripped of their uniforms in disgrace.

When the slightest evidence of intoxication was announced, will be summarily dealt with. The men have been specifically warned to avoid the stronger forms of alcoholic stimulants, and to drink beer only sparingly.

STRIKE DOESN'T WORRY OFFICERS OF MILITIA

Tie-up of Railroads Would Mean Commandeering of Troop Trains by Government to Move Militia.

The possibility of a general strike on the railroads of the country, which may be almost coincident with the troop orders to entrain for the border, is not worrying officers of the District militia. "If necessary," said Gen. Harvey, "we'll march there. As a matter of fact, except that it would take too much time, it would be a splendid thing if we had to walk. It would harden up the men—and hardening is what we all need." "But of course, no such necessity will really arise. If there should be a strike the government could and probably would, commandeer such trains as are necessary, move the troops wherever they are to go, and then settle with the railroads afterwards."

MUST HURRY TO JOIN THE HERALD'S CONTEST

Have you commenced to solve The Herald's new puzzle?

This is a question which is being very generally asked all over Washington, absorbing almost as much interest as who will be the next President. It has even been suggested that the number of times the phrase "The United States" can be formed represents the electoral vote which one of the candidates will receive. Contestants should remember that this is a short-length contest, and not too much time can be wasted determining whether to get into it or not. It will be over before you know it, and the time to get busy is right now, during these last days of June, so as to place yourself in line to get the money for your July vacation.

This is the last chance to win any newspaper contest money this summer, a fact well worth remembering by those who have visions of a vacation, but not the "where-withal" to take it.

The contest is open to everyone in the eastern part of the United States except those who won prizes in the last contest. The only obligation is to pay from one month to a year on subscription to The Herald. The winners will receive ten times what they pay.

Tuberculosis Hearing Tomorrow.

Beautiful Hand-decorated Suite for the June Bride's Bedroom

It is in the Old Ivory finish artistically decorated with floral spray. The knobs and the front are hand-decorated and the whole effect is greatly heightened by a gray border line. The decoration is well done, and there is not too much of it.

The construction of the suite shows the handiwork of skilled craftsmen, in the thorough manner it is made throughout. Its lines are simple yet most appealing because of the eminent good taste displayed. This is Furniture that any bride would be pleased to claim her own, and it reflects brightness, cheeriness and feminine taste.

Shades and Screens to Make Homes Cool and Keep Out Pests.

Vudor Shades are well known because they make porches very cool by keeping out the sun. Invariably the temperature of a Vudorized porch is lower than one that is not so treated. Vudor Shades are very durable, easy to hang, work smoothly, and never whip and blow in the wind.

A large new stock of the popular dark green color has just arrived, $2.25 to $7.50 each.

Screen Doors.

Screen Doors in regular and extra sizes and in various designs; good frames and good quality black enamel wire. Patrons should bring measurements when selecting.

Priced from $1.50 to $3.50 each.

Metal Window Screens.

Screens that do not stick or bind; those who have the old-style wood-frame adjustable screens know how bothersome they are in damp weather such as we have been experiencing lately. Sizes for all windows are here, 15 to 32 inches in height and 33 to 45 inches in extension.

Priced from 40c to 70c each.

Screen Frames and Wire Cloth.

Selected Wood Frames in three sizes, easily cut to fit any window; they are all ready to receive the wire; 25c frame. Wire for these frames, 4c and 5c square foot.

Colonial Glassware Is Expressive of the Best Taste in Tableware.

To express beauty and elegance in simplicity is a task that requires the ideas and work of artists. Colonial Glass is an illustration of this fact. We inherit this type of glass from colonial days, but the designs have been improved and beautified with the retention of the fundamental qualities that so endear colonial designs to the present generation.

Colonial Glass is shown very extensively here; several different designs and in most cases many sizes to each piece.

Water Tumblers, 35c to $1.15 dozen.
Tumbler Coasters, $1.35 dozen.
Glass Ice Tea or Lemonade Spoons, $1.75 dozen.
Ice Tea or Lemonade Tumblers, 50c to $6.25 dozen.

Reliable Refrigerators At Moderate Prices

It is not necessary to pay excessive prices in order to get Reliable Refrigerators. But it is necessary to get Reliable Refrigerators in order to have Good Food in the summer. We believe there is much sickness that may be traced to unwholesome foods produced by poor refrigeration.

Our Refrigerators are of the best insulation; cold dry air from the ice compartment is constantly forced through all chambers, and thus the food is kept in a fine state of purity and excellence.

We show Refrigerators in all styles to meet modern home conditions; top and front icing styles in models for apartment house or dwelling.

Priced from $7.50 to $35.00.
Nursery Refrigerators, $2.75 and up.
Water Coolers, $1.50 and up.

Stock Touring Car

Breaks New York-Washington Road Record by 1 Hour 26 Minutes

A Haynes Stock Model Touring Car, driven by D. B. Gish, Official Observer H. E. Duckstien, automobile editor of The Washington Post, left New York (Jersey City ferry) at 5:23 a. m., June 14, and checked in at the Municipal building, Washington, D. C., at 12:49 noon the same day, thus making the run between the two cities in

7 Hours 26 Minutes—Distance, 238.2 Miles

The former record was held by E. B. Terry, of this city, who made the run in an APPERSON a little more than a year ago in 8 hours and 52 minutes. The elapsed time, as stated above, was 7 hours 26 minutes. The actual running time was 14 minutes less, making an average of nearly 33 miles per hour. The only stops that were made—a total of five—were due, in four instances to traffic conditions, and the fifth was a voluntary stop for the replenishing of gasoline and oil. From the time the car left New York until it arrived in Washington there was not the slightest trouble of any kind with either the motor or Empire Tires. A maximum speed of 70 miles per hour was recorded on the speedometer upon several occasions, the car seldom moving at a rate of speed less than 55 miles per hour. Not a cylinder missed fire from start to finish, and the motor did not heat up. Not a tool was used. The Haynes made a perfect run in every respect. Owing to the easy riding qualities of the car no discomfort was felt on the entire trip.
